Fire on Paymasters as They Enter Darkened Hallway
Carrying Salary Roll.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Two bandits lurking in the darkened hallway of the Germania Worsteds Mills, in Kensington, shortly before noon today shot and killed Herman Kantenberg, the company's paymaster, seriously wounded Walter Haupt, his assistant, and escaped with a payroll of more than $2,300.

The bandits fired upon the two men as soon as they stepped into the hallway of the mill.

Mill hands and pedestrians immediately gave chase. The thieves made their escape by dashing across the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, two blocks from the scene of the holdup, in front of a long string of moving freight cars. The latter blocked the pursuers and when the train had passed there was no trace of the robbers.

SHE TELLS HOW ALLIES PREPARED FOR VERDUN

Thousands of Wounded Rushed
From Front to Paris Hospitals to Make Room for Others.

Mrs. Marie Vaughan, an importer of Chicago, who has been living in France and arrived here today on the steamship Chicago of the French Line, told of the preparations made for the battle of Verdun.

"For several days previous to the great battle, trainload after trainload of wounded being arriving in Paris," said Mrs. Vaughan. "The French had anticipated the German onslaught and were moving in the wounded from the first and second base hospitals to make room for the thousands who would be maimed in the expected battle. All the hospitals in and about Paris were crowded. There is plenty of room in the hospitals near the battle front and but few wounded are now being sent back to the capital."

"Among the most pathetic sights in Paris are the theatre parties of the wounded. You will see a legless man being carried to the playhouse by two stout companions."

Miss Lucretia Valay, a diminutive and pretty French singer, was detained on board the ship by the immigration inspectors until relatives or friends could vouch for her.

FIRE HOLDS MINE VICTIMS.

Buds of Only One of Six Killed by Explosion Recovered.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 10.—Six men were killed in the accident yesterday in the Hollenback Colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company in this city. Several explosions occurred and were followed by a fire which up to today had permitted a rescuing corps to recover only one of the bodies.

Bronx Handicapped Gets 10 Years.
A sentence of sixteen years and five months was imposed on James Flanagan of No. 302 East One Hundred and Fourth Street today by County Judge Gibbs in the Bronx. He was convicted Jan. 11 of his second trial of being one of two men who attacked two bank messengers of the Borden bank company at Park Avenue and one hundred and thirty-ninth Street and took from them $5,000. In seeking for the heavy sentence District Attorney Martin said that Flanagan was chief of the most dangerous band of highway robbers at work in the Bronx. There has been a marked decrease in these robberies since his arrest.

Vocational Exhibit Wins Prize.
The Intercollegiate Bureau of Occupations, an organization for vocational work among college women, received today at its offices, No. 130 Einar Twenty-second street, notice from the Panama-Pacific Exposition that its exhibit in the New York State Building in the department of Economics had been awarded third prize, a bronze medal. The exhibit is now on view in the rooms of the bureau and will be shown to those attending the meeting tomorrow afternoon, at which City Chamberlain Bruce and Dean Dillmeade of Barnard College will speak.

ZOO ELEPHANTS WORK CLEARING WALKS OF FOURTH BIG SNOWFALL

Tired Men in Street Cleaning
Department Tackle Fresh
Mess of Slush and Mud.

One more day was added today to the March weather endurance test inflicted on New York along with the other North Atlantic Coast cities. With a temperature which caused it to melt and turn to slush as fast as it fell, a light snowfall began two hours before daylight, cluttering sidewalks and making it necessary for the weary army of snow shovellers to go over miles and miles of city streets for the fourth time within a week.

The predictions were for warmer weather this afternoon, with continuing rain or snow and for colder weather with rain to-morrow, with today's southerly winds changing to northwesterly.

The accumulations of four successive snowstorms swamped the small force of snowploughs available for keeping the paths and roadways about the Arsenal and the Zoo in Central Park clear. But Head Keeper Bill Snyder's resources are not limited to two-legged park laborers. As soon as the early snowfall showed signs of slackening for an interval he called his assistant, Bob Horton. They led out Hattie and June, the elephants. Two extra heavy V snowploughs had been made ready and equipped with chains and whiffletrees of elephantine size, and to these Hattie and June were hitched. With Snyder at the head of June and Horton guiding Hattie they lurched along the paths, rolling back the soggy snow with ease and precision, and leaving the surface of the walks clean.

The big beasts seemed to enjoy the change from the monotony of imprisonment of their house, and it did not require much imagination to see a pleased twinkle in their eyes as early visitors in the park stopped and stared at the spectacle.

WOMAN WORKER BEATEN.

Williamsburg Striking Shirt Waist Makers Fight with Those at Work.

Striking shirt waist makers attacked non-union workers who have taken their place in Berkowitz Brothers' factory at No. 83 Scholten Street, Williamsburg, early today. Several on both sides were slightly injured before Policemen Boschen of the Cuyler Street station got there. Eddie Eisenberg of No. 841 DeKalb Avenue was being beaten when Boschen arrived.

The policeman used his nightstick. He arrested Harry Stutz of No. 238 Manhattan Avenue. Stutz, on a charge of having led the attack on Eddie Eisenberg, was taken to the station. He was held until other policemen arrived.
